Many companies today struggle to find new and creative ways to motivate their employees. The factors that truly inspire people to go 'above and beyond' are constantly changing.

Building a deeply engaged workforce takes continuous effort and commitment. There is no one formula for success, but it helps to start from the inside-out.

Read more from Jay Starkman and Alex Nadal of Engage, as published in the Business Journals